

Assistant Professor of Political Science

Founded by the Congregation of Holy Cross in 1948, Stonehill is a private Catholic college located just 22-miles from downtown Boston on a beautiful 384-acre campus in Easton, Massachusetts. With a student to faculty ratio of 13:1, the College engages its 2,500+ students in 80+ rigorous academic programs in the liberal arts, sciences, and pre-professional fields.

The Department of Political Science and International Studies Department seeks applicants for an Assistant professor position to begin in August 2012. This position is a 3 year term appointment with the possibility of renewal. Responsibilities include teaching three undergraduate courses each semester in comparative politics, including our introductory course, International Politics and upper level courses in the candidate's area of specialization. The Department will consider applicants in any area specialization or country/region with the exception of European Politics. The Department is particularly interested in candidates who can offer a course on Research Methods and who have an interest in Peace and Conflict studies.

The successful candidate will have a Ph.D. or be late stage ABD in Political Science or related field with teaching experience and evidence of scholarly promise. The position includes generous faculty development funds for the support of research and professional travel.

Candidates should submit a curriculum vita; a letter outlining areas of teaching interests, teaching philosophy, and research projects and plans; evidence of teaching and scholarly effectiveness; three letters of recommendation. Please submit these materials electronically with "Political Science Search" in the subject line to:
